2Day Languages

Maspespacio present their last project done in a central area from Valencia, Spain. The studio specialized in interior design and communication created in this case the interior and the identity of 2Day Languages, a new Spanish school in Valencia. As we wanted to give a major importance to the original architecture we chose for pastel colors: softer and also identifiable by their audience between 20 and 30 years old. By request of our client due to the limited budget the original floor was maintained. For the same reason 90% of the furniture was realized in carpentry, maintaining higher material qualities, but reducing the costs in comparison with the same furniture by brands with the same characteristics. Just like that all the decorative elements, tables and lamps were designed by us with the technical support from the carpentry and lighting specialists. The chairs and the couch are the only pieces from furniture brands used in this project. As in every project we also incorporated some elements created by us like the frames that represent different characteristics from the brand, Valencia and the Spanish language.
